

Do you buy “Easter bunnies”?
Does your church promote using
live animals as trinkets?

Learn the horrible truth

Thousands of bunnies are sold around Easter time as trinkets, with no concern for a lifetime of care. Easter is a celebration of resurrection and new life, renewal and forgiveness...not abuse and death.

Small “Easter” bunnies grow into rabbits who require as much daily care as dogs. They are ground-loving animals who often get frightened when they are held, and may bite and scratch. The exuberance of even the most gentle toddler can be stressful for a scared bunny. A child’s need to hold and cuddle is better served by a stuffed toy rabbit.

Rabbits can live to be ten years or older. They must have a specialized diet and when sick or injured should be cared for by a veterinarian trained in rabbit care.

They are companion animals who need to live inside like dogs and cats, not outside in wire cages, alone and bored. Rabbit proofing a home is more complicated than making a home safe for toddlers.

Every year after Easter many thousands of rabbits are abandoned to shelters or released outdoors (a sure death sentence for a domestic rabbit) and vets are always deluged with sick and dying bunnies.

To sell them as Easter trinkets perpetuates the ungodly myth that they are industrialized products to be used and trashed. Let’s teach our children compassion!

Do you want to end this pain and suffering?

Treat ALL God’s creatures with compassion and dignity...ANIMALS ARE NOT TRINKETS

www.all-creatures.org

Do you buy “Easter bunnies”?
Does your church promote using
live animals as trinkets?

Learn the horrible truth

Thousands of bunnies are sold around Easter time as trinkets, with no concern for a lifetime of care. Easter is a celebration of resurrection and new life, renewal and forgiveness...not abuse and death.

Small “Easter” bunnies grow into rabbits who require as much daily care as dogs. They are ground-loving animals who often get frightened when they are held, and may bite and scratch. The exuberance of even the most gentle toddler can be stressful for a scared bunny. A child’s need to hold and cuddle is better served by a stuffed toy rabbit.

Rabbits can live to be ten years or older. They must have a specialized diet and when sick or injured should be cared for by a veterinarian trained in rabbit care.

They are companion animals who need to live inside like dogs and cats, not outside in wire cages, alone and bored. Rabbit proofing a home is more complicated than making a home safe for toddlers.

Every year after Easter many thousands of rabbits are abandoned to shelters or released outdoors (a sure death sentence for a domestic rabbit) and vets are always deluged with sick and dying bunnies.

To sell them as Easter trinkets perpetuates the ungodly myth that they are industrialized products to be used and trashed. Let’s teach our children compassion!

Do you want to end this pain and suffering?

Treat ALL God’s creatures with compassion and dignity...ANIMALS ARE NOT TRINKETS

www.all-creatures.org

Do you buy “Easter bunnies”?
Does your church promote using
live animals as trinkets?

Learn the horrible truth

Thousands of bunnies are sold around Easter time as trinkets, with no concern for a lifetime of care. Easter is a celebration of resurrection and new life, renewal and forgiveness...not abuse and death.

Small “Easter” bunnies grow into rabbits who require as much daily care as dogs. They are ground-loving animals who often get frightened when they are held, and may bite and scratch. The exuberance of even the most gentle toddler can be stressful for a scared bunny. A child’s need to hold and cuddle is better served by a stuffed toy rabbit.

Rabbits can live to be ten years or older. They must have a specialized diet and when sick or injured should be cared for by a veterinarian trained in rabbit care.

They are companion animals who need to live inside like dogs and cats, not outside in wire cages, alone and bored. Rabbit proofing a home is more complicated than making a home safe for toddlers.

Every year after Easter many thousands of rabbits are abandoned to shelters or released outdoors (a sure death sentence for a domestic rabbit) and vets are always deluged with sick and dying bunnies.

To sell them as Easter trinkets perpetuates the ungodly myth that they are industrialized products to be used and trashed. Let’s teach our children compassion!

Do you want to end this pain and suffering?

Treat ALL God’s creatures with compassion and dignity...ANIMALS ARE NOT TRINKETS

www.all-creatures.org